EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Service Name: TEMAN

Product:

A mobile app and website that connects users with friends who can help them run errands, shop, do chores or simply provide companionship, both online (24 hours) and in-person (7am to 10pm). Users can choose to interact anonymously online, while a unique friend points system gamifies the experience, rewarding users for completing tasks. The service includes various friend categories, such as "Safe Walk Home" and "Chat Buddies", ensuring safety, convenience and social engagement.

Target Market:

Elderly people, workers, students and individuals who need companionship or assistance with daily activities.

Competitors:

Focuses on hiring helpers for tasks like furniture assembly, while FriendPC is an online platform for calling or texting new friends. Buddy Connect combines online and in-person services, offers dedicated buddies for different needs (such as safety or social support), and incorporates a gamified experience with points and challenges, making it stand out in terms of versatility and engagement.

INTRODUCTION

In today's fast-paced and often disconnected world, many people find themselves needing help with simple tasks or finding someone to talk to, but are unwilling or uncomfortable asking friends, family or neighbors for help. Whether it's running errands, shopping or simply needing companionship, the desire for social interaction and assistance in everyday life is a universal need. However, traditional services such as hiring help through platforms like TaskRabbit or chatting with strangers online through services like FriendPC are limited in scope and fail to fully meet this need.

BuddyConnect was created to address this problem, providing a versatile and engaging platform for users to engage in a variety of activities with "buddies", both online and in person. Our service combines the practicality of helping with errands and chores with the emotional support that people often crave, creating a unique solution that is both practical and socially satisfying. With BuddyConnect, users can find a buddy to walk home with them late at night, help carry groceries, or just someone to talk to during a difficult time.

The BuddyConnect service is designed to bridge the gap between the impersonal nature of gig work and the need for meaningful human interaction. Unlike TaskRabbit, which focuses primarily on task-oriented services, and FriendPC, an online platform for casual conversations, BuddyConnect offers a comprehensive service that meets both practical tasks and emotional needs. It is available through a convenient mobile app and website, ensuring accessibility and ease of use.

Target Audience

Our target audience includes young professionals, students, and busy individuals who lead fast-paced lives and value convenience. These users often have difficulty finding time for social activities or need help with daily tasks but do not want to burden friends and family. In addition, there is a growing demand among urban residents for services that provide convenience and companionship, especially in the context of increasing isolation in metropolitan areas.

BuddyConnect is designed to meet the needs of individuals seeking both practical help (such as running errands or keeping appointments) and social interaction (such as someone to chat with or go out with them). The service is also designed to meet the emotional and safety needs of users, providing online anonymity for sensitive interactions and the peace of mind of a safe walking companion home.
